

Sponsor a sick child

This 17-year-old woman suffering from malnutrition weighed a mere 38 kilos when she gave birth to her child. The precipitate delivery of the child occurred without any prior counselling or the assistance of a midwife. The young mother contracted blood poisoning and as a result the baby could not be cared for. We discovered the mortally sick child in the hut and were able to give it the necessary medical help just in time. It then received nutritional supplements and six months later a happy mother greeted us with a healthy child.

New children's hospital at Bolpur

We are happy to celebrate the inauguration of the St. Mary Child and Mother Hospital on 11th February 2011. Soon the needy children from the surrounding villages will receive life-saving medical care. Later on, when the construction of the first storey is completed, also mothers will get treatment.

With 2,000.00 INR a sick child can be looked after for a whole week. This amount includes the costs for:

- Diagnostics and treatment
- Medical care by a doctor
- Nutritious food
- Further education for the mother on nursing and medical plant processing
